

Buccaneer Park plans public opening Monday

By JAKE JACOB

WAVELAND—Buccaneer State Park will officially open for public use on Monday, according to Dr. Jim W. Meredith, executive director of the Mississippi Park Commission.

The first recreational park to be developed on the Gulf Coast for more than 25 years, the facility was dedicated by Governor William Waller on Jan. 9.

Funds for the park's development were provided under HB 660, a state parks capital improvements measure, approved by the Mississippi Legislature in 1972. Under the bill's terms, $3 million of the total $25 million approved for state park development, was earmarked for the Buccaneer Park work.

Speaking at the dedication, Gov. Waller told his audience they should invite the then governor-elect, Cliff Finch, down to the coast along with the rest of the "Jackson legislators" and tell them that an additional $2 million is needed to complete the required park improvements.

The 393 acre park lies within the City of Waveland's corporate limit and is located on the beach, two miles west of the main business district.

Park Superintendent Stan Weidman, who is originally from Waveland, said yesterday that his facility is the most modern and best planned park on the coast.

"We have fine facilities here," said Weidman adding that he is looking forward to the park becoming fully operational.

Buccaneer offers campers 105 class A camp sites, each with electricity, water and sewage hook-ups at $3.75 per night. "Camping spaces are available on a first come, first served basis," the park superintendent said.

Split into two sections, Buccaneer offers a day use picnic area, as well as the family camping ground.

Assisting Weidman will be an assistant superintendent, Douglas White, and three rangers. As well as providing operational and administrative services, the park rangers will function as law enforcement officers under the authority held by the Mississippi Park Commission.

"All our rangers have previous law enforcement experience and additionally are graduates of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, law enforcement school in Jackson," Weidman reported.

"We intend to run a tight, neat, and clean park," Weidman said.

Facilities in full operation following the official opening to the public will include the camp ground, the day use picnic area, group pavilions, playgrounds, lighted tennis courts, shuffleboard court, wading pool, and the concession-recreation activities building. A hiking trail is in development stages.

Campers checking in at the park must register at the information booth, located in the center of the main entrance, for site allocations.

Teacher contracts renewed

O'Hara named HNC interim principal

By CAROLE LANGE

Hancock school board members Monday approved the recommendation of Superintendent Terrell Randolph to elevate James O'Hara, principal of Hancock North Central Elementary, to principal of the high school for the remainder of the school year.

The board also accepted Randolph's recommendation to move Mrs. Helen Mestayer, HNC Title I Coordinator, into an advisory capacity at the elementary school.

On the recommendation of board member Tommy Shaw, the two will receive the salaries allocated to those positions for the two months they serve. Randolph stressed that O'Hara will serve as acting principal at the high school only until the end of this school year, since he was previously rehired as elementary school principal for the 1975-76 term.

Recommendations to rehire teachers in the district were not approved as easily, however.

The board voted 3-2 against rehiring Guy Neil Smith as Gulfview Elementary School seventh and eighth grade math teacher and girl's basketball coach.

Board member Johnny Banks voiced the original objection to Smith's rehiring, citing his alleged ineffectiveness as a teacher.

"The man is not doing his job," said Banks "and I would have to agree with Mr. Ladner (Beat one-board member Oris Ladner) that he spends more time in the cafeteria than in the classroom."

Shaw said he would vote to accept Smith as a math instructor, but not as a girl's basketball coach.

After twice calling for a second to board member Eric Larsen's motion to rehire Smith as recommended, board president Monvel Cuevas, vacated the chair and seconded the motion. In the final voting, Larsen and Cuevas voted to hire the teacher as recommended, while Ladner, Shaw, and Banks voted against the motion.

The board also ran into some snags when considering teachers for Hancock North Central.

Again, Banks objected to a blanket approval of teachers. But this time, Shaw voted with Larsen and Cuevas to rehire Mrs. Rebekah Kennedy as counselor.

In his objection, Banks said Mrs. Kennedy is "hurting the students rather than helping them."

Why Irish eyes are smiling

Custom calls for 'drowning the shamrock'

By CAROLE LANGE

"St. Patrick's Day, we'll all be gay," or so goes an old Irish ballad. However, the holiday celebration in old Ireland cannot compare with the festivities staged by third and fourth generation Irishmen in America.

According to library records, St. Patrick's day in Ireland is a quiet holiday, with a predominantly religious overtone. The actual celebration is more akin to New Year's Day in America, as the playing and watching of Gaelic football is high on a Irishman's list of priorities.

Contrary to popular belief, merrymaking is reduced to a minimum, as the pubs are open only limited hours during the day.

It was not always that way though. An old custom called for the wealthy people of Ireland to brew ale in February and keep it until St. Patrick's Day when pickled salmon and oaten bread were eaten with it.

The innkeepers in a benevolent mood, would give a "Patrick's Pot," a quantity of ale or whiskey, free of charge to all patrons. Over the Patrick's Pot, merrymakers wished each other health and cheer, including "long leases and low rents."

To "drown the shamrock" was an invariable custom of St. Patrick's evening. This was done by dipping the shamrock in a glass of ale then touching it to the shamrock worn in the hatband.

As another observance of the holiday, children wore a "croiseog," a small disk intersected by crosses and worn on the left breast. Croiseogs were of varying design and color, but the general pattern was the same everywhere in Ireland.

The design usually depicted one cross drawn on the surface of the disk with the blood of the wearer, obtained by pricking the finger, placed near the cross. Green, symbolic of grass, and

In Waveland Saturday it's Erin go braugh!

It's time once again to don your green coat and hat and scream Erin go braugh!

And in Waveland, the shamrocks are growing, the leprechauns are stirring, and the Waveland Civic Association is promising the best St. Patrick's Day parade ever.

The 1976 parade, scheduled March 13 at 2 p.m., will feature five Association floats, bands and marching groups from surrounding areas, and individual floats. The parade will follow its traditional route beginning at Waveland Ave., proceeding to Coleman Ave., making the square formed by Beach Blvd., Lafitte St. and Central Ave., and disbanding at the intersection of Central and St. Joseph. Annual St. Pat festivities actually got underway Saturday when the Association staged its annual ball at the American Legion. Approximately 400 persons turned out to see the crowning of the 1976 Colleen, Miss Adele McArdle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen McArdle, who shared the reign with Grand Marshal Eldon Gilly.

Miss McArdle is the 12th Colleen to succeed Miss Terry Gandee, the first Colleen honored in 1964. At that first ball, Joseph Griffin served as Grand Marshal.

The balls have changed somewhat over the years, as has the method of selecting Colleen.

Club member Archie Diebold said this year's Colleen was chosen by drawing names out of a hat (probably a green derby). He said although the method will probably change next year, the Colleen is always a junior in high school.

Maids to Miss McArdle included Miss Kelly Poolson, Miss Theresa Garcia, Miss Christine Galivan, Chalmette, La., Miss Leslie Hubert, New Orleans, La., Miss Debra Sellers, Miss Tamy Bourgeois, Miss Charlene Neacise, Miss Allison Ann McClosky, Miss Luisa Courtault, and Miss Gloria Anne Carswell.

Officers were J. A. Lagasse Jr., Archie Diebold, J. Leslie Galivan, Anthony Scavo, Gerald Boos, James Hubert, Joseph Barkely, Melvin R. Villere, Roland Galivan, J. A. Lagasse III, Terence Feeney, James Kelly Sr., and Fred Lampa.

Turcotte captures school board seat

Both Turcotte and Superintendent of Education J. D. McCulloch expressed surprise and appreciation for the large number of voters who turned out to cast their ballots Saturday afternoon at Bay Senior High.

Turcotte said he was anxious to help the school children and would see to it that they got everything they deserved.

Turcotte attended his first school board meeting Monday night. He joined the board in unanimously electing Mrs. Joseph Gex board president and Mrs. Jean Townsend secretary.

Waveland Postmaster Walter Turcotte Jr. defeated businessman Frank Shattuck by a vote of 255-82 Saturday to become the newest member of the Bay Saint Louis Municipal School Board of Trustees.

Turcotte begins his five year term by replacing Emile Hazeur whose term expired with Saturday's election. Turcotte joins Mrs. Jean Townsend as an elected member from outside Bay Saint Louis city limits. The other three members of the five member board are appointed by the Bay Saint Louis mayor and commissioners.

Picayune men held on rape charges

Three Picayune residents are in Hancock County Jail under $10,000 bond each awaiting a preliminary hearing tonight on charges they raped a 21-year-old Picayune woman.

Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said the three, Johnny L. Milstead, 20, Tommy G. Frierson, 19, and a 17-year-old youth were arrested late Saturday on U.S. Highway 11 as they attempted to flee the scene on foot.

Navy struggles with environmental study nearing end

Comments on the Navy's Amended Impact Statement on the proposed relocation of the Naval Oceanographic Office (NAVOCEANO) from Suitland, Md. to Hancock County will be "hand-delivered" to the Department of Defense tomorrow, according to Walt Andre, NAVOCEANO legal adviser.

Information in the documents could eventually lead to a decision by Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld which would set the wheels in motion for the relocation of approximately 1,300 employees from Prince George County to facilities at the National Space Technologies Laboratory (NSTL).

According to a timetable established by U. S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, the Navy was given until Feb. 13 of this year to add more information on the availability of housing and schools for low income and racial minority families affected by the move to a December, 1975 Impact Statement.

In a temporary injunction issued against the Navy on Dec. 5, Gesell ordered a halt to the involuntary transfer of any employees of the Naval Oceanographic Program to NSTL in Mississippi until three suits filed by Prince George's County, Oceanographic office employees and the NAACP to block the proposed transfer were settled.

On Dec. 16 the Navy filed a motion for modification and reconsideration of the preliminary injunction and in a Dec. 23 hearing clarified who the injunction applied to. Gesell upheld the restriction on the transfer of any Oceanographic Program employees unless voluntary and established a deadline of Dec. 31 for the Navy to halt all construction at NSTL. Gesell allowed the Navy one exception to complete work on the Navy's communications center at the NSTL site and expected work at Slidell to accommodate the transfer of NASA's Earth Resources Lab. to facilities at Michoud.

background report

At another hearing on Jan. 7 of this year to consider the Navy's motion to lift the injunction a "new" environmental impact statement was submitted to the court. The court, however, ruled this amended Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) remained inadequate until the Navy analyzed the total impact of the move and came forward with some plans to alleviate the problem of discrimination, poor schools, and other problems defined in the transfer. The injunction was continued.

On Jan. 9, the Navy turned over the work of preparing its amended impact statement to the Independent Council for Environmental Quality.

Then in a hearing before Gesell on Feb. 6 both sides were given a timetable by the court to follow.

The Navy was instructed to submit its new amended EIS to all agencies and interested parties who had contributed to or testified on the original draft EIS. Within three weeks (approximately March 9) these comments were to be collected by the Navy and together with any Navy response added to form a "final" amendment to the EIS.

This document along with the Navy's economic justification for the transfer and the endorsement of the Navy's brass was to be delivered to Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld by March 12.

Rumsfeld's recommendation is expected to be submitted to Gesell by April 1 unless an extension is requested by the Secretary.

If Rumsfeld's action supports the move, the Navy will file the Amended Impact Statement with Gesell and subsequently move to dissolve the preliminary injunction.

Opponents of the move will then have two weeks (until April 15) to make a rebuttal and submit motions for a summary judgment against the move. If this happens, Gesell will immediately set a hearing date to resolve the issues.

Second annual hike

March of Dimes walkathon gets underway March 13

The second annual Hancock County March of Dimes Walkathon will begin March 13 with registration from 8-9 a.m. at the Bay Bridge starting point, according to Joseph W. Gex, chairman.

The walkathon route will proceed along S. Beach Blvd. to the halfway point at Nicholson Ave., then to the finish line at Buccaneer State Park.

Gex said the actual march is scheduled to begin at approximately 9 a.m. and members of the auxiliary police force will accompany the hikers as escorts.

Both individuals and organizations may participate in the walkathon by getting a sponsor to pledge a contribution for each mile walked.

Gex said a "poop-out truck" will be located along the route, but persons should make their own arrangements to return from the finish point at Buccaneer. He said refreshments will be sold along the route and all proceeds from the march will go to the National Foundation March of Dimes in its fight against birth defects.

"Each year over 200,000 babies are born with either mental or physical defects," Gex said, "by contributing towards medical research, we hope to prevent birth defects in our lifetime."

In the event of rain, Gex said the walkathon will be postponed until the following Saturday, March 20.

Coast seafood industry requests estuary study

WASHINGTON — Gulf Coast representatives met here last week with the Chief of the Army's Corps of Engineers to underline their request for a Corps-sponsored feasibility study of the introduction of fresh water into Mississippi and Louisiana estuaries.

A seafood industry request for the study was submitted last August after scientific tests supported the conclusion that controlled supplemental discharges of fresh water into estuarine areas enhance fish and wildlife productivity. South Mississippians attending the meeting with Lt. Gen. William Gribble stressed their claim that marine-related entities in the Gulf Coast, including biologists, commercial and sports fishermen, as well as political subdivisions, subscribe to this conclusion.

"I can't help but believe that we had a productive meeting with the Corps," Congressman Trent Lott (R-Miss.) said. "I'm particularly pleased to see such unified support, both from state officials and private industry. I hope we can go forward with a feasibility study at the earliest possible date."

Lott and his administrative assistant, Tom Anderson of Gulfport, participated in the meeting along with five industry and state officials.

They were joined by representatives of Senator James Eastland (D-Miss.), Senator John Stennis (D-Miss.), Congressman Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), Senator Bennett Johnston (D-La.), Senator Russell Long (D-La.), Congressman John Breaux (D-La.), Congressman David Treen (R-La.), Congresswoman Lindsey Boggs (D-La.), Congressman Ed Hebert (D-La.), Senator John Sparkman (D-La.), Congressman Jack Edwards (R-La.), and Congressman Bob Eckhardt (D-Tex.).

Because we care Bill Farrell is there!

Hancock County residents can be proud of the manager of Riemann Fahey Funeral Home, Mr. Bill Farrell. He's a man of experience... dependability... knowledge... dedication. He's one of the very few men that the Riemann Family would entrust with such a demanding responsibility.

Bill Farrell is concerned about his community, is interested in its young people, is active in church and civic affairs.

But what's most important is that he's truly dedicated to funeral service and serving people, and isn't that what you're looking for when the need arises?

Farming--never more important than it is today

As we enter into Bicentennial celebrations this year, let's not forget our dependence upon the land. Agriculture is the foundation of our entire life in providing the basic necessities of food, fiber and shelter.

Our forefathers needed no reminder of the importance of agriculture 200 years ago. They each produced their own food and fiber - or they did without. There were no welfare programs with food stamps, no modern supermarkets with an almost endless variety of food items. The primary concern of farmers of yesteryear was to provide food, clothing and shelter for their families.

This early emphasis on developing a strong agriculture was a start in the right direction. The foundation established then has led to development of the most efficient agriculture known to man. This efficiency, in turn, has freed about 95 percent of our nation's people from producing these basic necessities. This, in turn, brought about the industrial revolution and development of the greatest nation on the face of the earth.

This doesn't mean the importance of agriculture has declined. In fact, its importance has increased - there's more people to feed every day and less farm land on which to produce food and fiber.

We're blessed in Mississippi with all the ingredients needed to maintain and expand agriculture. We have some of the best farmland in the world and our farmers know how to use it. Agricultural research, plus educational programs conducted by Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, has given us agricultural technology second to none.

Inflation and recession have hurt all the people of Mississippi, but probably our farmers are hardest hit. In addition, they've faced unusually bad problems with weather and insects during the past two years.

However, a long-range agricultural development program is underway to help agriculture reach its fullest potential in the state. III by '83 is a 10-year program launched by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service in 1973 to increase the value of farm production in Mississippi to $3 billion annually by 1983. During the past two years, this program has helped the state's farmers keep a bad situation from getting worse. Short term objectives of III by '83 deal with immediate problems, which in the long run will help the state reach its long-range goal.

III by '83 was launched in a banner year for agriculture in the state. The value of farm production in 1973 was $1.9 billion. Value dropped to $1.8 billion in 1974 and was further reduced to $1.7 billion last year. With the kind of farmers we have in Mississippi and the leadership in III by '83 from the Extension Service, these are only temporary setbacks. We can expect a recovery in Agricultural income and we will reach our goal of $3 billion by 1983.

III by '83 is emphasizing marketing in 1976. Farmers need to adopt better marketing programs and keep up with the supply and demand situation. If farmers can master marketing as they have production, then everyone in the entire state will benefit.

The world has become the marketplace for today's modern farmer who is learning that efficient and wise marketing may mean the difference in having a profit or a loss at the end of the year. We urge continued concentration of efforts to increasing the value of farm products by further processing and finishing what farmers produce. We heartily support III by '83 and urge the full cooperation of business and industry in helping bring economic potential.

St. Patrick's Day...

yellow, representing the yolk of an egg, were always part of the color scheme.

Traditions have altered somewhat from those earlier days, and a current custom in celebration of the holiday is for the rich to give to the poor.

Following the gift-giving in Dublin, the "very elite" of the upper classes are invited to an impressive ball at Dublin Castle in the St. Patrick's Hall ballroom. The ball is attended each year by the President of the Irish Free State.

Despite the grand ball, most Irishmen now celebrate the holiday with family get-togethers and special church services.

The gala celebration of St. Patrick's Day as it is known to many Americans today originated with the Irish, who emigrated to the New World and found themselves among strangers with unfamiliar holidays.

To proclaim their "Irishness," they began to celebrate St. Patrick's Day with a heartiness and gusto typical of their forefathers.

The first St. Patrick's Day parade took place in New York City during the American Revolution. On March 17, 1790, 400 Irish soldiers in the British army, the "Volunteers of Ireland," marched from the city waterfront up Broadway to attend a banquet.

By the 1850's, the parade had become an annual event in Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta, and numerous other American cities.

Despite the parades and celebrations in other cities, New York has remained the granddaddy of St. Patrick's Day celebrations.

In the annual parade today, marching groups include the Loyal League of Irish Sons of Erin, and parade participants and spectators wear a shamrock in their hats or lapels.

And where else but in New York, would city workers get paid to paint the center stripe of a main street bright green, for a one day occasion?

School board...

Randolph blamed the school's inadequate facilities as creating most of the problems in the counselor's office. "Mrs. Kennedy is doing the work of four counselors in a cubby-hole space," and I think she's done the best job she can possibly do under the circumstances," he said.

Contract renewals for North Central coaches Dawayne Cade, Garry Mims, and Joe Williford was postponed awaiting a resubmission of the principal's recommendation. There seemed to be some question as to the exact job description of the three in the original recommendation to rehire.

Friction between Banks and Randolph surfaced in moments of verbal sparring between the two concerning Randolph's decision to accept the recommendations of principals for next year's teaching personnel.

Banks said a principal (whom he declined to name) told him several teachers were not doing their jobs, but that he (the principal) knew they would be rehired by the board regardless.

Randolph replied the performance of every teacher would be documented by his or her principal "and all principals will be held accountable to me." The superintendent then made a heated pitch for a set of guidelines on which "to operate effectively and efficiently."

Banks, referring to an earlier set of policies written for the board countered "but we will not let you write guidelines that are in favor of Hill (Federal Coordinator Harlin Hill) and yourself."

At this point, board president Cuevas interjected that the board's job was to manage, while the superintendent and principals' job was to supervise.

"We will never get anywhere until the board unites with the principals, and the people unite with the board," he said to rounds of applause from the approximately 20 spectators in the audience.

Apparently affected by Cuevas' statement, Randolph later asked permission for Shaw to accompany him on a March 11 trip to McComb, and suggested that board members travel with him in the future "so everybody will know what is going on."

In other business, the board said they would look into the requirements for hiring substitute teachers, following a complaint from the mother of a Gulfview student that an unqualified person had been substitute teaching for more than a week. Randolph said he planned to initiate a policy of advertising for substitute teachers, then putting them on job openings on a priority basis.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Nancy Dwyer as special education teacher at Gulfview and voted to hire Mrs. Janelle Griffin as her replacement.

Letters will go out soon to all members of the Hattiesburg North Central girls' basketball team commending them for their performance in recent state competition. The girls' team emerged as one of the top six teams in the state in A classification.

"The woman told us the three men abandoned her and the car at the gravel pit after the auto bogged down in the soft ground," Ladner said.

The three were arrested by sheriff's deputies after the woman hitch-hiked back into town and called the Piquette Police Department.

A Piquette police spokesman said charges of abduction have been filed against the three in Pearl River County.

What would you do with 2,000 lbs. of trash?

It's hard to believe that each of us produces 2,000 lbs. of trash a year, but it's true. Unfortunately, too much of this solid waste ends up on our highways, city streets, and many other places where it's not wanted.

Solid waste disposal is everyone's problem. Not only does it waste tax dollars, it's an eyesore. It doesn't have to be this way. If we work together to clean up what we mess up, we can have one of the most attractive states in the country.

But one individual or group of individuals can't do it alone. It's going to take all of us working collectively to get the job done. There's a Clean up Mississippi Committee in your county that needs your help right now. Let's clean up Mississippi today.

USM to host junior college architectural, drafting contest

The first Junior College Invitational Architectural and Machine Drafting Contest will be held at the University of Southern Mississippi March 26, in the temporary technology building on Fourth St., announced Dr. Ken Woolf, director of the Center for Technological Studies.

Contest time will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Registration is at 8 a.m.

"The architectural and machine drafting contest is a collection of outstanding junior college students demonstrating a highly efficient capability in architectural drafting and machine drafting," said Ysidro Salinas, coordinator of architectural technology.

Argentine students find coast much like homeland

Nineteen students from Argentina and their chaperone visited the Coast Episcopal High School campus in Pass Christian last Friday.

The students spent the afternoon playing soccer, football and rugby with the Coast Episcopal students. They also practiced their language skills on each other.

The group, participating in a goodwill tour, is sponsored by the Foreign Relations Association in New Orleans and the Argentine Council on Student Exchange (C.A.D.I.E.) in Buenos Aires. Since the seasons are reversed in Argentina, these students

During this activity the student has an opportunity to demonstrate his abilities in architectural and machine drafting.

Contestants will be limited to two participants in architectural drafting and two in machine drafting from each junior college. First, second and third place winners will be selected in each category.

In architectural drafting, students will draw a preliminary sketch of a residence and a working drawing of a site plan, foundation plan and details, typical wall section, elevations, floor plan, millwork (sections and elevations), roof framing and electrical plan.

In machine drafting, contestants will draw working drawings of a machine part with notes, dimensions and bill of materials; pictorial drawings with dimensions and notes of the given views; and auxiliary and oblique views of the given drawings.

Ask the VA

Q - What is the Veterans Administration PREP program?

A - The Predischarge Education Program (PREP) is intended for military personnel who have completed more than 180 consecutive days of active duty and are in need of courses necessary for a secondary school diploma or courses necessary for entrance into a post secondary course of study. Complete information and application forms are available from military education offices and VA regional offices.

Q - If I use my GI home loan benefits now, can I use them again in the future?

A - Yes, as long as you relieve the VA from liability in your current VA loan.

Q - I am a veteran and was hospitalized in a private hospital for my service-connected disability for more than 21 days. Am I entitled to an increase in my compensation?

A - Yes, if medical evidence supplied to the VA shows that the condition for which you were hospitalized was for the service-connected disability. You would be entitled to a 100 per cent rating from date of admission to at least the date of discharge from the hospital if you file claim for increase with the VA within one year of date of admission.

Q - I served in the Army for 24 months. How many months of educational eligibility am I entitled to receive?

A - Eligible veterans with at least 19 months of continuous active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, and separated with other than a dishonorable discharge, are entitled to 36 months of educational assistance. Veterans having less active duty than 18 months are eligible for 1 1/2 months of eligibility for each month of active duty.

Q - I was married to a Korean Conflict veteran for six months before he died. Am I eligible for a pension from the VA?

A - To qualify for a VA death pension, the widow must have been married for a minimum of a year unless a child was born of that marriage. The minimum requirement applies to veterans of all wars except the Vietnam era. The one-year limitation will become effective for widows of Vietnam-era veterans who marry after May 7, 1965.

Consolidation - an issue as budget time nears

The constitution and statutory language, court interpretations and long, established practice, make it very clear that the legislature of each state is, in fact, the "big school board."

In recent years, these state departments have tended to emphasize their role, particularly in the fields of minimum requirements, teacher certification, and the distribution of state funds.

Thus, Mississippi schools are not only subject to legislative and executive control, they are also subject to judicial control.

The court is, in its construction, split into three distinct units. The base of judicial action is the circuit court which has general and original jurisdiction over criminal and civil cases, including those pertaining to schools. Next, there are the appellate courts which, in themselves have no original jurisdiction, but they do hear appeals on the basis of evidence previously supplied the lower court. At the apex of the judicial system is the state supreme court, also ordinarily an appellate and nonoriginating court. Crucial questions pertaining to state schools and school systems, in particular those directly relating to the constitutionality of specific legislative action, often move through all three state court levels.

Recognizing the authority of the state legislature, the courts are, we would think, reluctant to substitute their own judgment for legislative intent.

We are also aware of the claim that top decisions in a community - which is in itself one of the greatest influencing legislative lobbying forces - are made by an informal elite and not by the people who act within the formal structure or who make up the interest groups of the community.

It is the responsibility of the state to assure that each school district must have the required financial resources to permit its operation. Further, we believe it is the responsibility of the state to mandate a minimum levy for all school districts to continue their qualification for state aid fund sharing. In other words, taxes gained under such a levy are collected and disbursed locally, but local districts have no discretion in determining the depth of this tax.

Adding to this local levy, the state department gains income from personal income tax and sales tax to finance their department enforced minimum educational standards program.

To give local movement within the taxation framework, and provide a program of education beyond state minimums, Mississippi law permits school districts to receive money from additionally imposed local taxes.

Without going into the merits or pitfalls of the current trend in Mississippi towards granting county school districts the same tax setting privileges as municipal districts, and giving permission to county governments to hike the present mill rate from 25 to 30 mills.

Hancock County has a school budget of $3,143,637 for the current school year. We do not know that even with the elimination of an entire pyramid of administrative excess, a consolidation of schools, and the provision of a like level education for all students in the county, that even this sum could be maintained at a status quo.

We have shown that enabling legislation has been enacted. We have shown that, at least on the surface, there exists argument for consolidation.

We now show additional avenues through which the county may travel to bring about a possible lessening of tax burden; a greater utilization of school structures and teaching staff; a method through which all students are afforded the best and equal chance for the future.

We now respectfully ask that school authorities in both the municipal and county systems break their silence on this topic - if necessary calling for a public meeting to at least let people hear the pros and cons from responsible multi-level educators and financiers.

Further, we ask this be done in time for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, and the Bay-Waveland Municipal governments, to review the situation prior to their having to approve 1976-77 school year budgets. (J)

Memorial to Ezelda Ling

MAY H. BEYER

Last week Hancock County lost one of its most important and beloved citizens, Ezelda Ling, who served untiringly for more than 20 years as County Health Nurse.

Her duties were legion, as she cared for the health of the needy and the sick of all ages, from the cradle to the grave. Her heavy schedule not only covered responsibilities in the Health Clinic, but she nursed and took care of the sick in their homes. Her comforting and reassuring competent manner was a great source of consolation to the large number of senior citizens and shut-ins of our area, who had few resources other than the help she brought to them. Only the persons who knew her well are aware of the tremendous assistance and kindness, above and beyond the call of duty, which she gave to anyone who requested her help.

As a young widow and former Navy Nurse, she left her home in Ohio with her invalid Mother and two small daughters in search of a warmer climate. While driving through Bay St. Louis there was something about the town and it's people which attracted her, and she decided this was the city in which she wanted to live. She soon learned to be comfortable and happy with us, and we reciprocated by claiming the Ling family as our own.

Let us not soon forget this Angel of Mercy who lived so quietly in our midst for so many years, giving, loving and serving the people of Hancock County.

Reading machine

Annunciation first grader Belinda Cameron demonstrates how the instruction of reading, writing and arithmetic sure have changed since some of us attended school. Belinda is learning reading on one of the school's new electronic learning machines. The machines utilize a multi-channel record on the machine top and punched plastic control cards to visually and audibly teach reading lessons. The machines let the student progress at his or her own speed and increases tempo of reading as proficiency increases.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

MORE FOREIGN AID

It was time for the Great American Giveaway last week: foreign aid appropriations time. And you can bet that the United States Congress didn't disappoint the rest of the world. When the smoke had cleared on the floor of the House late in the week, American taxpayers were saddled with a $5.2 BILLION foreign aid bill - the largest in our history! And we've had some big ones.

But rest easy, friends. The House Appropriations Committee, after long and careful study, assured the full House that enactment of the bill "would have minimal overall inflationary impact on prices and costs in the operation of the national economy."

If they actually believed that would take a load off my mind, they were sorely mistaken. When we voted on final passage of the bill, I cast an emphatic "NO."

As usual, there were many amendments to the bill. One particular amendment caught my eye, but it was defeated before you could say "Venezuela."

My good friend and colleague, Jack Edwards of Alabama, offered an amendment to strike $85 million from the appropriation for the United Nations Development Fund. He argued that the Fund has consistently dished out YOUR tax dollars for at least nine Communist countries: Albania, Bulgaria, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Mongolia, Romania and Yugoslavia.

Many of us rose in support of his amendment, but our arguments fell on deaf ears. The amendment was rejected by a 208-179 margin.

My colleagues in the House did regain their senses long enough to approve an amendment that would deny aid to any country that is more than one year in default in repaying debts owed the United States. The amendment was similar to a bill I introduced in the House last year.

"I realize that this amendment is not popular on the fashionable Washington cocktail circuit," the amendment's sponsor said during a floor speech, "but it is an issue that continues to irritate most American citizens who cannot understand why the U. S. Congress will not do anything to collect the foreign debts that are justly owed the U. S. Treasury."

He went on to point out that nine of the OPEC countries are delinquent in their obligations to the U.S. by more than $59 million. Anyone who has paid 60 cents a gallon for gasoline will surely find it hard to believe that the OPEC countries don't have the money to repay those debts.

"Iran, Nigeria, Venezuela and Indonesia, many of the countries that have benefited from an increase in the price of oil, many of the countries that are investing those profits in our economy, are delinquent in their obligations," he continued. "Venezuela owes the United States, as of June 30, $4,164,088 - an amount that has quadrupled since the oil boycott of two years ago."

That apparently hit a nerve in some of my colleagues. We approved the amendment by a 229-139 margin.

Many of those same members, however, bounced right back and voted for final passage of the bill. It was finally approved by a 214-152 vote. My dissenting vote - and those of the other members of the Mississippi delegation - was cast in vain.

One last thought that's sure to send you into orbit: with the addition of this latest money, we will have reached the $150 BILLION mark in foreign giveaways since we came up with the bright idea of foreign aid.

It's a sad note. At a time when we're struggling to cut back and make ends meet, Congress insists on passing the largest foreign aid bill in history.

THE AMERICAN'S CREED

I believe in the United States of America - as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states, a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

Immortal words from a man who once rose from messenger in the U.S. House of Representatives through the ranks to hold for 12 years the honored position of Clerk of the House.

What lasting influence has a reporter - a journalist - a newspaper, magazine or periodical in serving the cause of patriotism in this country? Francis Bellamy was working on a journal for juveniles. It was called Youth's Companion. Editor of the magazine, one James B. Upham, gave him a job description - an assignment. Bellamy was to devote his writing talents to promote patriotism and the flying of the flag over public schools. The National Public School system planned to observe the 40th anniversary of the discovery of America. The year? 1891. Benjamin Harrison was president of the United States. Bellamy went to Washington to ask the president to endorse the idea of having a flag displayed over every public school and to teach patriotism in all of these schools. Wording of President Harrison's proclamation which he signed on June 21, 1892 said: "Let the National Flag float over every school house in the country and the exercises be such as shall impress upon our youth the patriotic duties of American citizenship."

Printed first in the Youth's Companion, dated September 8, 1892, Bellamy wrote: "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation, indivisible with liberty and justice for all." Later, during the administration of President Eisenhower and in the year 1954, the pledge was amended by adding two words "under God". An earlier amendment during Flag Day 1924 added two words "of America".

Francis Bellamy died in 1931 and approved the clarity of the first amendment. Had he lived, it is felt he would have heartily approved the second amendment for "America, America, God shed His grace on Thee and Crowned Thy good with Brotherhood from Sea to shining Sea."

Editor, Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks and appreciation to you for printing our anti-litter message each week to the citizens of our community.

I would also like everyone to know that this is being done free of charge as a public service to the community. Thanks again for helping us to obtain the goal of being a city known for its cleanliness. It's everyone's responsibility and it's not too difficult.

Very sincerely yours,
Warren Carver, Mayor

John Ed Ainsworth ran on the platform of abolishing the State Land Commissioner's Office in order to save the taxpayers money. Now he wants to keep the office and wants more money for running it.

I think the legislators should either abolish the office or leave the budget as it is.

Student exchange program brings Carla Zommer to Pass

By JAKE JACOB

Born in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Carla Zommer, 15, is one of 154 students from that country, now in the United States under the auspices of the International Youth for Understanding student exchange program.

Daughter of Valde Zommer Neto and Margarida Torres Zommer, Carla has been in the country for approximately two months out of an intended six-month stay.

Guest of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Ellis of Pass Christian, the pretty high school senior is a fine ambassador of her country, and delights in telling of Brazil's many natural wonders and customs.

There is a Portuguese speaking nation, and she and her fellow students are taught to speak and write English and French as well as their native tongue.

Classed as a senior at Our Lady's Academy in spite of her age, Carla says several educational differences exist between here and Brazil.

"In Brazil, I attend academic subject school from 7:00 a.m. until noon, every day, including Saturday," she said when interviewed this week. In the afternoons except on Saturday, all the students go to different schools to learn specialist subjects concerning their intended future career.

"In this second school, vocational and professional, I spend three hours a day learning architecture and interior design."

She explains that much of her time is spent in drawing house plans and interiors, and making models of the houses. The Brazilian girl also indicated that her school officials are not without knowledge of the ways of students.

In Saturdays they schedule the important classes we cannot miss, otherwise there would probably be a lot of students who would not go," she said.

Carla started formal school at the age of four, after a year of home schooling.

Now living in Pass Christian, she found having moved to a better climate the exchange student says that her mother, Mrs. Zommer, is the best thing in the world.

She is a wonderful wonderful person, Carla said.

At the latter the daughter also speaks Latin, Portuguese, French, and Spanish. As an international and bilingual speaker, she is well known in the school and in the community.

Carla, a native of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, said she is a very happy person, and she is very happy to be in the United States.

Surprise family at dinner--ham it up.

Buying a ham can be quite confusing. Hams come in dozens of sizes and shapes. They may be with or without bone, partially or fully cooked, simply wrapped or canned. You need to look carefully to make sure you buy the type that best suits your needs.

The first question to ask is how much of a ham do you want? You can buy the whole ham or only part of it. If you do not want a whole ham, then you need to remember the following terms:

Butt-Half - this the upper half of the whole ham. It is the meatier half of the ham, and usually sells for several cents more per pound than the other half.

Shank Half - this is the lower half of the whole ham. It contains the tapered or pointed part of the ham and has more waste than the upper part.

Butt Portion or Shank Portion - the key word here is portion. When the choice, center part of the ham has been removed from the ham, the label must state the remaining parts as portions, rather than halves. Since the choicest and least wasteful part of the ham has been removed, portions should cost less per pound than halves.

Center Slices - these are the oval shaped slices that have been cut from the center of the ham. Usually, they contain a small round bone, although you can buy them without the bone. Simply broil these slices for 15-20 minutes (if 1/4 to 1-inch thick) to make a quick and delicious meal of ham steaks.

Another decision involves the amount or absence of bone in the meat. The boneless ham has had all the bones removed, and makes carving easy. It costs more per pound than ham with bone, but of course it has less waste.

Bone-in hams have had no bones removed. The semi-boneless has part of the bones removed, usually leaving only the leg bone. These are more difficult to carve, but you may prefer the flavor achieved when the ham is cooked with some or all of the bone still intact.

Moisture is always added during the ham curing process. When hams are shrunk back to the original fresh weight while in the smokehouse, the label will read "ham". If it has up to 10 per cent added moisture, the label will read "Ham, Water Added". If more than 10 per cent added moisture is present, it will be labeled "Imitation Ham".

HAMARONI SKILLET SUPER.

1 pound "fully cooked" ham, cut in julienne strips
1 package (7 oz.) elbow macaroni, cooked
3 tablespoons margarine
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups reconstituted dry milk
1 small onion, finely chopped
1/4 teaspoon marjoram leaves
1/2 teaspoon pepper
8 ounces cheese, grated
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Melt margarine in saucepan, blend in flour, gradually add milk and cook slowly, stirring constantly until thickened. Add ham, onion, marjoram and pepper and cook slowly 5 minutes. Stir in cheese, macaroni and pimiento. Cook slowly 8 to 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. (Makes 5 to 6 savings.)

There will be a home gardening meeting to be held at the Agriculture Building on Necaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis, Thursday, March 11, starting at 7 p.m.

National Wildlife Week scheduled March 14-20

You've seen one wetland, you've seen them all. Right?

Only if a bog looks like a bay, or a swamp like a prairie pothole. About all they have in common is water - and vulnerability. Wetlands can be very perishable, especially if they lie in the path of bulldozers or intrude upon farm fields.

Agricultural drainage, construction of roads, airports, and housing developments, flood and mosquito control projects - these have been among the enemies of wetlands. The growing national and world population can use more cropland, more houses, more roads, and all the rest. Dazzled by such prospects, it is easy for policy makers to overlook economic, spiritual, and recreational values of wetlands.

"Wetlands are among the richest wildlife habitats on earth," according to Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation. "They are a national treasure, and we recognize that in making 'Save Our Wetlands' the theme of our National Wildlife Week March 14 - 20."

There are 20 kinds of wetlands, from northern ponds full of melted snow to southern river bottoms covered by spring floods. Bogs, marshes (fresh water and salt water, coastal and inland), sounds, bays, potholes, and swamps are other common types of wetlands. They occur across the nation, most frequently in the upper north central and Great Lakes states, and from eastern Texas through the southern and eastern states, as well as along our coasts.

In the 1800s, the government viewed wetlands as a hindrance to agriculture and settlement, to be drained off or filled in as quickly as possible. By 1900, there were still about 127,000,000 acres of wetlands, but this had shrunk to 82,000,000 acres as of 1953.

Gradually, officialdom began to realize that wetlands were not a wasteland but a natural resource. They became aware that the potholes of the northern states and Canada were a vast duck nursery; that other waterfowl and other wildlife depend on wetlands for food, water, or cover; that land erosion increased as wetlands declined; that valuable firebreaks were vanishing; that cash crops like shellfish, blueberries, peat moss and others had nowhere to grow. Boca Ciega Bay off St. Petersburg on the west coast of Florida is a small but typical example of wetlands' economic clout. Dredging and filling so upset productivity that the bay's bait shrimp industry, worth an adjusted $265,000 annually in the mid-1950's, has dropped to about $130,000 in 1972. Signs of a growing interest in the preservation of wetlands have begun to appear. More and more acres of wetlands are coming under federal, state, or private control, administered to aid wildlife tenants. Other programs have emerged, such as "404."

Section 404 of the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act requires the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to regulate the discharge of dredged or fill material into our waters. This gives the Corps the right to grant or deny applications for permission to dredge or fill, applications the Corps will consider on the basis of environmental, social, and economic impact.

GOP precinct meetings scheduled

Dr. John B. Levens, Hancock County Republican chairman, urges all county republicans to participate in the GOP precinct meetings to be held March 27 at 10 a.m. at the usual voting places of each precinct.

"Everyone who considers himself a Republican can attend and vote at the precinct meetings," Levens said. "We don't have party registration in Mississippi, so Party membership is a state of mind. Anybody who wants to be a Republican is one, regardless of his or her past primary voting or party participation. We welcome everyone who wants to work with us."

The March precinct meetings will select delegates and alternate delegates to the County GOP Convention, to be held that same afternoon at 3 p.m. at the Courthouse in Bay St. Louis.

The number of delegates and alternates to be selected by the precinct meetings will be determined by the County

Executive Committee and will be announced next week.

Precinct meetings are the first step of the four stage process of selecting delegates to the Republican National Convention which begins August 16 in Kansas City, Mo. Mississippi will be represented by 30 delegates and 30 alternate delegates.

At the afternoon County Convention, Republicans will select two delegates to represent Hancock County at the GOP State Convention and Congressional District caucuses in Jackson April 10. The number of State Convention delegates is set by state law.

The County Executive Committee to head the local party for the next four years will also be elected by the County Convention.

Levens said anyone having questions about the GOP convention process should call him at 467-9293 or 467-7428 or Mrs. Fred Wagner at 467-7872 or 467-5331.

Pecan industry to be established in Stoneville

JACKSON-Gov. Cliff Finch announced last week he had been advised by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten that the U.S. Department of Agriculture would establish a pecan research unit at its Stoneville, Miss., Laboratory.

Whitten and other members of the Mississippi congressional delegation obtained $500,000 for research to determine why pecan trees in the Mississippi Valley and adjacent areas have not been bearing consistently for several years. Approximately $100,000 of that amount will be spent at the Stoneville station.

The laboratory at Stoneville will initially be staffed by a horticulturist, technicians and laboratory assistants. Whitten and Finch expressed hope that the program would be expanded to include a pathologist and entomologist within three years.

A secondary aim of the laboratory will be to evaluate new improved pecan varieties and local native varieties which have sustained annual production, with the goal of identifying those which will produce a crop in the study area each year.

The overall funding also includes $15,000 for pecan weevil research at Mississippi State University and $40,000 for pecan disease research at MSU.

Finch credited establishment of the program to cooperation between Mississippi's congressional delegation, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and pecan growers.

Announcement of the research unit followed a tour of major pecan producing areas in Mississippi by USDA officials. The tour was arranged and led by James Chiles Jr. of Clarksdale, a member of the Board of Directors, Mississippi Pecan Growers Association.

Loch Ness monster expert speaks at Wildlife Federation meeting

Russell W. Peterson, chairman of the President's Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ), and Sir Peter M. Scott, the distinguished British naturalist who believes there is a Loch Ness monster, are among the government officials, scientists, and businessmen who will address the 40th annual meeting of the National Wildlife Federation in Louisville, Ky., March 20.

Peterson, whose CEQ shapes environmental policy for the President, will speak at the Federation's Annual Conservation Awards Banquet, where NWF's coveted "Connie," or Conservationist of the Year award, is presented annually.

Scott, chairman of the World Wildlife Fund, will be one of 10 speakers on a day-long "Conservation Odyssey—From the Bicentennial to the Year 2000." Speaking on "The Future for International Wildlife," he will show slides of the "monster" photographs that created a furor among scientists when published in England two months ago.

Other non-government speakers on the "Odyssey," which will be open to the public, include Thomas A. Murphy, board chairman, General Motors Corporation; Thornton F. Bradshaw, president, Atlantic Richfield Company; Dr. Chauncey Starr, president, Electric Power Research Institute; and John B. Madison, assistant director of conservation, Winchester-Western Division, Olin Corporation.

Government officials on the "Odyssey" program include Secretary of the Interior Thomas S. Kleppe; Dr. Robert M. White, administrator, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA); Lynn A. Greenwalt, director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; Victor V. Veysey, assistant secretary of the Army for civil works; and U.S. Senator Walter D. Huddleston, a Democrat from the host state of Kentucky.

NWF, the nation's largest conservation organization, holds its annual meeting in a different city each year. This year's convention, from March 19-21 at the Galt House in Louisville, is expected to attract about 1,000 of NWF's 3.5 million members from affiliate organizations in all 50 states, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The opening day of the convention, Friday, March 19, will be devoted largely to committee meetings and a panel discussion on the future of hunting in the U.S.

The "Conservation Odyssey," taking a long look into the future, will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, March 20, and will include the world premiere of a new U.S. Forest Service color film, "Roots of the Nation."

Dale criticizes utility increases before committee

Public Service Commissioner John L. Dale this week delivered a blistering attack on the states' telephone and electric power companies in an appearance before a legislative committee considering new utility legislation.

Daniel Havard of Hancock North Central High School and Elizabeth A. Campbell of Coast Episcopal High School were among the 25 finalists announced in Congressman Trent Lott's Bicentennial Essay Contest.

A five member judging panel is currently evaluating the "Why the Bicentennial is important to me" essays penned by the finalists.

The grand prize winner will receive a one-week trip to the nation's capitol during the Bicentennial month of July while the two alternates will each receive a $50 savings bond.

Certificates of achievement will be presented to the first and second place winners in each participating high school within the district.

Gex home, Whitfield and Breath gardens beckon visitors on Bay-Waveland pilgrimage

The Lucien Gex home, located at 224 N. Beach, Bay St. Louis, is one of the most interesting and still surviving homes on the Coast, and is the first residence stop on the Bay-Waveland Garden Club pilgrimage March 24.

The land on which the home stands was acquired through a grant made to Madam Carroll in 1708. The home later became known as the Carroll Plantation, and still in evidence are some of the oak trees planted by the original owners.

Another landmark reminiscent of earlier days is the carriage house and slave quarters located at the rear of the home. These buildings may be viewed from the outside by visitors.

Mrs. Gex has preserved the feeling of true "Southern hospitality" throughout her home. Of particular interest is a window pane in one of the large bedrooms which bears the inscription "Oct. 6, 1872." The date was scratched on the pane by a diamond engagement ring which belonged to Miss Virginia Carroll, who married Thomas Lee Airey in 1860.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Gex will be Mrs. Omer DeBever, Mrs. Robert Akers, Mrs. E.N. Spence, Mrs.

Ulysses Cuevas and Mrs. Elsie Leveau.

Also, Mrs. Charles Dickinson, Mrs. Gerald Gex, Mrs. Lucien Gex, and Mrs. Gordon Gleim.

The gardens of the Sam Whitfield home, 610 N. Beach, are the next scheduled tour stop.

The gardens grace the sloping grounds of the home, which was built in 1881 for Charles Worsley as a present for his bride.

Five large oak trees provide an umbrella cover for much of the garden, where azaleas, camellias, and bulbs bloom in profusion.

At the entrance to one of the gardens stands a very large and old oak tree sentinel.

A cabana constructed of old brick, which was originally used for the Commissary at the site of the Old Weston Lumber Company in Logtown, stands to the right beyond the guest cottage.

The 12 x 12 foot pine beams supporting the cabana were cut from the Whitfield's land.

A citrus garden and several pecan trees stand on the north side of the home.

The garden was featured on the Bay-Waveland's first pilgrimage in 1939.

The Bay High Ensemble will sing at the Whitfield Gardens which will be opened at 11 a.m.

Two informal gardens on both sides of the walkway invite visitors to the Charles A. Breath home, 616 N. Beach.

The Breath home was built in the 1800's and bought by the Monet family in 1836. During the Civil War, the Monets, fearful of plundering Union soldiers, hid the family silver and other valuables in the hollow of the large oak tree on the grounds. The tree still stands and will be of particular interest to visitors.

The home was put back into the Boardman-Breath families in 1869.

Garden hostesses will welcome guests on the front lawn, as the home will not be open for viewing.

Hostesses include Mrs. Donald S. Coffey, Mrs. Rita B. Balch, Mrs. Jack B. McGuire, Mrs. Charles A. Breath III, Miss Robin Coffey, Miss Karen Breath, Miss Amy Northrop, Miss Ginny Vegas, and Miss Alane Carlson.

The homes of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Amedee, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Whittington, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Artigues will be featured in next Thursday's edition of the Echo.

ST. MONICA GUILD. Trees, wild flowers, cultivated fruits and shrubs of Bible times were topics of discussion at a meeting of the St. Monica Guild which met Monday in the Parish House of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian.

Mrs. Ducros Stouse researched the subject and told the group some 3,500 different wild plants have now been cataloged in the area around Palestine. In explaining the term "apple," Mrs. Stouse said Bible translators agree the term "apple" in early Hebrew referred to any fruit. The golden apple, she said, might well have been an orange. Fruit known to us as apricots were also under the nomenclature of apple.

Many fruits and plants were symbolic, Mrs. Stouse said. The olive was a symbol of abundance, oil the symbol of the Holy Spirit; laurel an emblem of peace and honor, and the almond meant fulfillment of promise. The fig and vine were emblems of shelter, happiness, and love within the home.

Mrs. Herman deVries, treasurer for the group, announced a profit of approximately $600 cleared on the St. Valentine's silver tea. Dr. Celestine Linnstaedter reported on her committee's visit to St. Michael's Boys Farm near Picayune. The farm now has 24 residents, Dr. Linnstaedter said, and the boys attend accredited classes and are assigned to farm tasks and building projects within the 40-acre compound.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Robert Bird, Eugene Blondeau and A. C. Staples. The tea table, carrying out the St. Patrick's theme, was covered with Irish linen cloth, napkins featuring the Shamrock, and a large monogram of camellias. Presiding at the punch service was Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet and Mrs. Clarence Wallace poured tea.

Viet refugees share lifestyle with their Project Do friends

Twenty-five members of Project Do, a Bay area teenage action group, spent last Saturday in Algiers as guests of 20 Vietnamese refugee families.

The students, all members of Our Lady's Academy and St. Stanislaus College, arrived in Algiers about 11 a.m., after a two hour bus ride from Bay St. Louis. After visiting the individual families in their homes, both students and the Vietnamese children adjourned to the recreation center of St. Phillip's Episcopal Church for an afternoon of organized games.

The Project Do activity, organized by its director Brother Canistus Schell was the latest in a series of interchanges between the group and the Vietnamese refugees, several of whom visited the Bay area over Christmas.

While at the homes, Project Do members enjoyed a typical Vietnamese meal, gave gifts to their hosts while learning that Indonesians do not open such gifts until after the donor has left, and gained an insight into the Viet's gentle manners and customs.

Welcome Project Do

Tran My Hanh, right front, welcomed Project Do member Lisa Stevens into her home last week during the group's field trip to the Algiers, La. refugee settlement area. Pictured with Tran My Hanh and her guest, are her mother and three brothers.

Nursing aides get education via bumps and scrapes

By JAKE JACOB

The Nurses' Aide Course at Hancock North Central High School was described this week by one impressed student as being "good training for family crisis."

Forming part of the school's work study program, the course carries half a credit per year and is one of five such non-academic activities sponsored by the school. Other aide programs are: teacher, library, office, and cafeteria.

Requiring a minimum of 18 credits for graduation, students must earn 16 units of academic accreditation and may fulfill the balance of graduate requirement through accumulation of school approved and sponsored non-academic courses.

Other non-academic offerings, each carrying proportional credit status include: varsity athletics, band, physical education, newspaper, and year book.

Apart from opening the door to a future career in nursing, the nurses aide course offers an insight into the O'Hara said the nurse sees an average of 65-70 students per day, but during seasons of flu and other epidemics, this total had upped to over 100.

"These students, performing the more routine tasks have released the nurse for more important things," O'Hara said.

"It would be impossible for us to utilize the nurse's services as much as we do without these aids. Their willingness makes it possible for us to undertake a much greater medical program," O'Hara explained.

He cited such major areas of assistance as the location and orderly handling of students being tested for hearing and eyesight, the handling of records, application of ice packs and band aids, and other time consuming tasks.

a member of the Beta Club and FHA. Patricia said her special wish is "to be there for that special moment when my family really needs me, and to show them my appreciation and thanks for everything."

A resident of Leetown, Cathy Brown, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin V. Brown, plans to pursue a career in nursing after graduation. A senior, she has been an aide for two years.

Another two year student enrolled in the nurses aid program, is Lesa Ladner, 14, ninth grade student, who intends to become a secretary following graduation. Lesa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ladner of Necaise Crossing.

Aides with the program for one year or less include, Deborah Ladner, 14, ninth grade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ladner of Necaise Crossing.

problems, sicknesses, and common ailments of children - all of great value to future parents.

Taught by school nurse Evelyn Cox, RN, the course is of four years duration, for the two-credit maximum earning.

Nursing aides are not permitted to administer any medications. Under constant supervision from their instructor, they do perform routine medical tasks to include monitoring temperatures, blood pressure, pulse rate, and so forth, reporting any irregularity to the nurse for immediate verification. Too, they assist in the administration of hearing and eyesight tests, apply minor dressings, and under one to one supervision, treat minor lacerations and abrasions.

Principal James O'Hara sees the nursing aide program in an extremely positive light.

"This is a wonderful program," O'Hara said Tuesday.

"Our school has a feeling of congratulation to the nurse and students involved for doing a worthwhile job," he said.

"With limited county funds it lets us really get value for the taxpayer," O'Hara said.

The school's guidance counselor, Mrs. Rebecca Kennedy, says the work study program provides students with both a sense of responsibility and a career orientation.

"Many of our aides have entered into the nursing profession as the result of the exposure received under this program," Mrs. Kennedy said this week.

She said that in addition to a potential career exposure, it provides the student with an insight into understanding the problems of parenthood by making them aware of, and alert to, the health problems of younger children.

Reasons on the course's value advanced by participating students Monday ranged from agreeing with those of their career counselor to an unexpected, "It lets you explore the dangers of school." This latter reference made apparently following an aides' realization that body contact sports and activities do occasionally lead to broken noses and the like.

Ten girls are currently involved in the nursing aide program. Of these, one has been enrolled for six years, and another for five - both from a period when junior high girls were permitted to join the aide course, a practice not now followed. Two have earned one complete credit, and the balance have been nursing aides for one year or less.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ladner, the six year aide veteran is senior Wanda Carol Ladner, 18, a resident of Necaise Crossing. A member of the Beta Club, she plans to attend Pearl River Junior College this fall with a business administration major.

Patricia Ladner Smith, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Ladner of Necaise Crossing, has been a nursing aide for five years. A senior, she is also

Tigers open season against Harrison

The Bay Senior High School baseball team will open its 1976 season with three road games March 17, 19 and 20 before returning to Bay St. Louis for a night game with cross town rival St. Stanislaus at 7 p.m. Mar. 22.

Tiger coach Claude Yarborough is not making any predictions about the relatively young and unproven team (there's only one senior and three starters back from last year), but expects the Tigers to be tough on defense and is counting on good hitting again this year from Niles Blaize (.390) and Bill Ginn (.340) in addition to Ricky Adams and Adrian Favre.

The Tigers who have 18 games scheduled including nine home stands, will play six conference games and more importantly in Yarborough's eyes six district games.

Bay belongs to the Gulf Coast Conference and plays in the southern half of District 8 Class A.

Although his starting lineup has not been completely formulated, Yarborough believes pitching honors for the opening games will probably go to either Junior Ricky Adams or Adrian Favre.

It appears Yarborough may have the happy problem of deciding which hurler to use with four good prospects to choose from. In addition to Adams and Favre, there is also senior Niles Blaize and sophomore Frank Henry. Behind the plate, Yarborough will have either Jeffrey Reed or Gerry Townsend.

At first, it looks like Jesse Schwartz and Gary Dorsey battling for the starting call. Fighting for second are Ricky Manieri and Puller Dorsey. At third are Carl Carter, Blaize, and Favre - the latter two when not pitching.

Shortstop is being contested by Ricky Adams and Mike Richardson. In the outfield, Yarborough can choose from Ginn, Mike Carter, David Howard, Frank Henry, Ivan Cobb, and Nicky Saucier.

The Tigers last season went 4-10 overall and 1-3 in the conference. This year's conference schedule has been expanded two games to total six.

For those interested in going out Monday night March 22 to see the Tigers and the Rockchaws go after it, you will be interested to know also that the occasion has been declared "team night" and players from the Tiger track, tennis and baseball teams will be present. Parent support is being asked.

The following are game times for the Tigers' first four games: March 17-Harrison Central (away) at 2 p.m., March 19-Ocean Springs (away) at dan barber

1 p.m., March 20-George County (away) at 2:30 p.m., and March 22-Stanislaus (home) at 7 p.m.

SPORTS SHORTS-The final six nominees for the Gulf Coast Chapter of the Hall of Fame and National Football Foundation scholar athletes include Stanislaus' David Weir, Mike Graeber, and David Handshoe. Waldon Dedeaux of the Pass Christian Pirates was also named.

Weir lettered three years at quarterback for the Rockchaws and has a 3.5 grade point average. Graeber played three years as quarterback and defensive back and has a 3.7 GPA. Handshoe, a three year defensive back and linebacker with the Rocks, holds a 3.5 GPA. Dedeaux played at end three years for the Pirates and has a 3.0 grade average.

A total of six out of the 22 nominees now received will be selected by the Hall of Fame selection committee next week and those six boys will be honored at the chapter's annual banquet at the Hilton Hotel in Biloxi on April 1 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for the banquet are $6 and can be obtained from Homer Dedeaux at Bubba Oustalet Ford in Gulfport.

Three luncheons will be held at the same time on Monday March 15 to bring together USM fans and supporters in a gigantic kickoff of the 1976 football season. Kickoff luncheons will be held at noon in Jackson, Hattiesburg and at the Ramada Inn in Biloxi. Cost is $3. USM president Dr. Aubrey Lucas will briefly address all three luncheons via telephone hookup, season ticket plans and procedures will be explained and plans for the football season discussed. Ticket info can be obtained from Bud Kirkpatrick in Hattiesburg, telephone 286-7133.

Kantcha Ketchum

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

Now that the weather is getting warmer and the tides are getting normal, we can look for some better fishing of both salt and fresh water fish. Our only handicap is that Pearl River has gotten bad again and it will take a week or two for the water to clear. However, such tributaries as Black Bayou, Mills Bayou and Kaufman Bayou, plus smaller bayous at the mouth of Middle River are clear at their heads and bass fishing is improving right along.

These streams furnish some mighty good fresh water fishing almost the year round. Again all that is necessary is for the tide to fall in the afternoons to make the fish bite.

Now is the time to do still fishing with a perch pole, using live minnows, grasshoppers, crickets, crayfish, etc., while the fish are spawning. You don't have to use artificial baits, fly rods or casting rods to catch them. That is just a higher type of fishing, anyway. But still a wonderful sport, if you know how.

A few speckle trout were caught off the highway bridge one day last week. Maybe they are coming in again.

This month should usher in soft crabbing and floundering. Most all sportsmen have been waiting for this time. It will make fellows like Eddie Marquez, John Damborino, Henry Lang, Teddo Thomas, Joe Griffith, John Genin, John Scaife, Jr. and others very happy as they are some of our best soft crabbers and flounders. It is really a good sport. Won't be long now until the beaches out front will look like Canal Street with lights everywhere. I am a little too old to go after them, but will be glad to give you a few pointers about getting them.

The Louisiana trapping season closed Sunday, Feb. 29, at dark, according to schedule, and there will be no extension of the season as published in the digest of hunting, fishing and trapping regulations, according to the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

J. Burton Angelle, commission director, said that under commission regulations, trappers had five days to gather their traps and equipment and leave the marshes and other trapping areas.

Fred Osborn, Gary Basham, Debbie Mixon and John Baudry came down from Baton Rouge to spend part of the carnival season in the Big City. They plan to come over to the Bay a little later to do some fishing, etc. Welcome folks!

If You Say Sew

COOK UP A NOOK—If you need sewing space, find a bare corner, use natural cotton fabrics to cover chair cushions, line inside of bookcase, add Stutch Wiltshire (iron-on bonding net) cotton window shade that rolls down to conceal your storage. Now sew away, using cotton thread for sewing cotton fabric, of course.

Quite a number of people attended the Bay St. Louis parade last Sunday. They were fishing for throws and weren't disappointed. It was a parade to talk about.

Another season coming up as soon as it gets warm is the frog season. There are several types of frogs but the Bull Frog is the most popular and better known. Frog legs are definitely a luxury food. With a little practice one can get all the frog legs he wants. All that is needed to get them is a headlight, a gig and the know how.

The mating female lays a remarkable egg cluster that spreads out on the surface to cover two to five feet and contains 10 to 20 thousand eggs.

Bullfrogs have many natural enemies from egg to adult, since they are eaten in various stages by many species of birds, snakes, and by bullfrogs and other frogs as well.

During the course of their development, bullfrogs have peculiar changes in food, the tadpole stage being strictly vegetarian, where as the transformed frogs eat only animal food, insects, frogs, young turtles, snakes, moles, mice, and birds. We have caught bullfrogs on the fly rod. Believe it or not. They will hit a small bug just like a bass. Go get frogs, they make for good eating and can help out on the family budget.

Egrets are being shot at New Orleans International Airport. It is claimed that the birds are endangering aircraft and passengers.

More on green trout: Those going to Black Bayou last Tuesday reported terrific catches of bass and perch. That's good news.

Jack Welch said he likes all kinds of sports but is too busy to participate in them. We think his main sport is horse back riding. Can't blame you Jack. It is a good sport.

Summer time always means dew berry time. The bushes are now in bloom. It also means snake time. The only good one is a dead one. Be careful, watch out for snakes. One snake bite can mean plenty trouble. Carry a stick to protect yourself from snakes while picking berries.

Joe Kern and Robert (Bub) Genin didn't watch the parade Tuesday, instead they went bass fishing. Returned home with a beautiful catch of bass and perch. Joe said they were hitting surface baits. Both Joe and Bub are fishermen of the old school, they know how and where to get 'em. Thanks Joe for paying me a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Pie Ladner are visiting relatives for a month. Pie is a brother of Lloyd Ladner. They are staying with Mrs. Fred Garner another relative. He is a fisherman supreme. He is enjoying fishing, mostly fresh water fishing. Pie is originally from Bay St. Louis and knows a lot of the old timers. One of their trade marks is that they spend one month back home each year. Welcome back Pie.
